Speaker Says "Y" Next To Home, Church

AN OVERFLOW crowd attended dedication ceremonies for the new, $550,000 Y.M.C.A. building yesterday afternoon.

Held in the gymnasium of the new structure, the program attracted an audience much larger than Y board members and officials had anticipated. Throughout the speeches and formal prayers, hymns and presentations, nearly half a hundred persons stood to the rear of the room or were seated in extra chairs hurriedly set up in aisles along the side of the gym floor.

The main speaker was W. Haines Kent, general secretary of the Pennsylvania Y.M.C.A. organization. He was introduced by Clifford Gilliam, local board member and an official representative of the National Y.M.C.A. council of which he is also a member.

Kent paid tribute to the great body of work which has gone into the construction of the new Monroe County Y building. He noted that this year marks the 41st anniversary of the founding of the County Y.M.C.A. and the 101st birthday of the Y organization in the State.

"It will be many years before this structure will reflect the 41 years of constant effort and work which have been given by the county Y group, Kent said. He recalled "the worn steps of the previous Y building here" which he said reflected the thousands of youths who had crossed the doorway to a better life.

Kent paid tribute, also, to the individuals who "have worked and sacrificed" to make the new building possible. "There have been times," he said, "when even the faithful doubted the project would be completed."

But "conferences and committee meetings galore" solved the problems and these efforts have become a "part of the fabric of this building," he said. If there is one "common characteristic" which runs through the story of the new Y building, he said, it is "loyalty."

Kent cited the Biblical story of Ruth and Naomi ("Whither thou goest, I will go also . . .") as an example of the loyalty he had in mind. He noted that all the persons who have been associated with the county Y have displayed such loyalty for the past decade they have been loyal to the "idea" of a new Y building; for the past 41 years, they have been loyal to the "ideal" of the Y.M.C.A. organization, he said.

"The community has found nothing, outside the church, which serves youth with such . . . effectiveness . . . as the Y.M.C.A.," Kent continued. "What the Y gets (from the community), it gives back to the community in greater service to youth."

The community, he said, could paraphrase Ruth's saying to Naomi as: "Whither thou ledest, we will follow . . . for thy people are our people . . . and thy God is our God . . ."

Sebastian S. Kresge, one of the principal donors to the fund for the new county Y building, was introduced. Kresge reminisced about his own early life in the county and his career.

E. Holt Wyckoff, president of the Y board, was in charge of the ceremony. He opened the program with a brief address of welcome, noting that the building itself was a good welcome to all visitors.

Wyckoff paid tribute to the persons who had worked for the Y in past years. Among them he mentioned Mrs. W. Burnet Easton, who donated the original tract of land for the Y; Judge Charles Staples, an early Y board president; William L'Honnemieu and the three immediate past presidents, Frank LaBar, D. W. Frankenhoff and James Kilson.

Wyckoff introduced special guests who were seated on the speakers' platform and board members, who were seated in the first rows on the left side of the auditorium.

Search For Plane

CATSKILL, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A ground search party headed through wild mountain terrain about 25 miles northwest of here today after a pilot sighted what could be wreckage of a small private plane missing since yesterday.

KEY MOMENT at yesterday's dedication of the new Y.M.C.A. building was this — Contractor Paul Edinger, right standing, presented buildings keys to Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, head of the building committee. Hoover Commission Approves Foreign Aid With Restraint

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The Hoover Commission told Congress today that the U.S. foreign aid program "despite many mistakes and waste, should be continued"—but on a narrowed and reorganized basis.

Seven of the 12 commission members attached a separate statement that called for "immediate substantial reductions," an evident plea for cuts in President Eisenhower's $3 1/2 billion dollar aid program now before Congress.

The main report, entitled "Overseas Economic Operations," declared that no more economic or technical aid should go to the European countries who were charter members of NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

And, it said, no manufacturing or large industrial development should be projected for the "Asian-African arc, with the possible exception of Japan."

The original NATO nations have received about $9 billion dollars from this country since World War II.

The commission under the chairmanship of former President Herbert Hoover, was set up by Congress to look for ways to save money and to recommend government reorganization where necessary.

The commission endorsed Eisenhower's plan to liquidate the Foreign Operations Administration June 30 and to shift its central function to an International Cooperation (ICA) in the State Department.

However, it assigned to the new ICA a smaller sphere than Eisenhower had suggested. It proposed that 11 of FOA's operating duties be handed over to other existing agencies.

The report took an unusual form. In addition to it, the commission put out a statement saying four of the dozen members were absent when the report was adopted. Yet 11 members signed various disents and statements—all but the chairman, former President Herbert Hoover.

"Surely, after 10 years, the time has come to apply some brakes to this overseas spending program," said the group, which included Sens. McClellan (D-Ark) and Bridges (R-NH) and Rep. Brown (R-Ohio).

Three Members Of Congress Caution America Not To Expect Much From Big Four Confab

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Three Congress members, two Republicans and a Democrat, cautioned Americans today not to expect much—if any—easing of world tension in the proposed Big Four conference.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said "it is difficult to believe much good can come out" of the meeting of the heads of state, which may begin July 18 at Geneva.

The only reason the Russians agreed to the meeting, Martin said, was because of fear of "our strength and their own weakness." Rep. Feighan (D-Ohio) said "we must regard such a conference as nothing more than an opportunity for us to spell out to the entire world what we stand for and what we stand against."

Feighan urged President Eisenhower to demand at the conference that the Russians "agree to dismantling and completely removing the Iron Curtain which they have constructed from the Baltic Sea to the Pacific Ocean."

He said the Russians should be required to hold free elections in all the Soviet-orbit satellite countries.

Sen. Bush (R-Conn) cautioned against over-optimism.

Martin's remarks were prepared for commencement exercises at Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass.; Feighan's for ROTC commissioning ceremonies at John Carroll University, Cleveland; and Bush's for ceremonies at New London, Conn., commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Nathan Hale.

South Viet Nam Rebels Surrounded

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, June 5 (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem hurled more than 30 army battalions today against the private forces of Gen. Tran Van Soai, a leader of the dissident Hoa Hao religious sect. By nightfall the rebels were hemmed into a triangle of watery ricefields with little hope of escape.

Diem, who had delayed an all-out offensive against Soai's 3,000 to 5,000 men for two weeks despite sniping attacks, gave the go ahead after a series of Hoa Hao assaults on Bassac River ferry posts early today. The government kicked off its attack near Can Tho, 90 miles south of Saigon.

Latest reports of casualties said the lightning operation cost the army 3 killed and the Hoa Hao 10. Thousands of government troops swarmed across the broad Bassac in sampans, under the protection of Vietnamese naval units which only a few hours earlier had succeeded French naval forces at Can Tho. By noon the troops had cleared the highway leading east from Can Tho to Vin Long.

In midafternoon, other army striking forces occupied all the main routes linking Sadek, Long Xuyen, and Lai Vung. These towns all army bases, form an equilateral triangle of about 30 square miles of rice paddies within which Soai's forces appeared trapped.

President, Wife Join In Recording

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower joined the chorus as Christmas carols rang from their church today on this warm June day.

The choir and the congregation—full voiced and booming—sang "Hark the Herald Angels" and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

The Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, minister of the National Presbyterian Church, explained the singing was being put on a record to be released commercially.

President Nixon's remark to a Chicago Rotary Club convention last week that "this conference could be the world's last chance to settle differences peacefully and avoid a catastrophic war."

Secretary of State Dulles has consistently played down the probable results of the conference, and the State Department has declined to back up Nixon's statement.

Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a frequent administration friend in foreign affairs, commented that "this is a free country and the vice president has a right to speak his opinions."

George said "we ought to approach this top level conference with a positive attitude and hope that we might accomplish something . . . I am not a defeatist but I look for no miracle."

Gray's Homer Caps Late Victory Rally

HEGINS—A tremendous home run drive to right, center field by Dick Gray in the last inning, with two outs, gave East Stroudsburg a 3-2 victory over Hegins Township and the District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association championship here on Saturday afternoon.

A crowd of approximately 600 people jammed into Hegins Park to see the Cavaliers rally from almost certain defeat to gain their biggest baseball victory in history.

Gray's homer, a 300-foot poke between the center and right fielders brought to close the championship battle in Frank Merriwell fashion, as the husky second sacker raced around the bases and slid across the plate just ahead of the relay from the outfield.

Gray was quickly swarmed under by his almost delirious teammates, who didn't let him off the ground for several minutes. Dick then became a target for the large following of East Stroudsburg fans who poured on the field to congratulate their champions.

Tenth Win

The win was the 10th in 12 outings this season for Coach Jack Kist and company, while the loss was the third in 13 trips to the starting gate for Hegins Township, winner of the Northern Division title.

Bill Sommers, East Stroudsburg's strong armed right hander, and Jim Miller, crafty southpaw from Hegins, hooked up in a brilliant mound duel which found both clubs unable to score in the first five innings.

The host club broke the scoreless deadlock with two runs in the top of the sixth and appeared to have the verdict just about clinched at this point in the game.

Hegins, the visiting team in the batting order due to the fact that it lost the flip of a coin to determine the home team prior to the first pitch, brought its routing section to the front with some scientific baseball that resulted in two big sixth-inning runs.

Bruce Shomper, Hegins second baseman, singled with one out and then stole second base. Fritz Reed beat out a bunt down the first base line and Shomper moved up to third. Frank Artz squeezed Shomper home with the first run. But was thrown out at first from Sommers to Gray covering. Carl Romberger walked to put runners on first and second.

Ike Returns To West Point

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower returned today to his alma mater, the U. S. Military Academy, for a reunion with his classmates of 40 years ago. He also will make the commencement address to this year's graduates.

Smiling happily, the President stepped from his private plane, the Columbine, at nearby Stewart Air Force Base after a fast flight from Washington. He was accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower. They motored the 17 miles to West Point.

A couple of hours after his arrival, Eisenhower and some of the members of his class of 1915 started a crowded program of activity.

They went to the Plains, the academy's historic parade ground, to witness a colorful retreat review and the awarding of honors to the Corps of Cadets.

The fifth annual Eisenhower Award, a large silver tray, was presented by the President to Cadet Capt. Delbert H. Jacobs of Seattle, Wash., for excellence in military psychology and leadership.

Egypt Asks Free Zone

CAIRO, Egypt, June 5 (AP)—Egypt renewed her proposal for a demilitarized zone along the Israeli demarcation line today as a fresh outbreak of shooting between Egyptian and Israeli forces was reported in the tense Gaza Strip.

The Egyptian war office said six Israeli armored cars and trucks approached the demarcation line and opened fire on two Egyptian outposts.

Johnson Throws Democratic Senate Support Back Of New Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex) today backed a drive to add millions of dollars annually to social security benefits for women and disabled persons.

House Democratic leaders have announced they will push for House passage of such a bill soon, but there had been some talk the Senate would wait until next year.

Johnson told reporters "I strongly sympathize with the views of those in the House of Representatives who wish to improve the Social Security Act during this session."

He noted that such legislation must originate in the House, but said that if it were passed there, "I would certainly want to schedule the improvements for Senate debate and action during this session."

Lower Age

The proposal would lower from 65 to either 60 or 62 the age at which women become eligible for social security benefits. And it would make disabled persons covered by the law eligible for benefits at the time of injury or illness.

Basis For Better Relations Between U. S.-Asia Cited

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) disclosed today that Indian Diplomat V. K. Krishna Menon told him "a basis for a better understanding between all the Asian countries and the United States could be reached."

Saying he was "very much impressed" by Menon's predictions of two recent events, George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, revealed that he had conferred privately with the Indian diplomat here in April.

Menon got international attention again this weekend by announcing in London that he intends to report to President Eisenhower personally this week on his talk with Chinese Communist leaders about prospects of a Formosan peace.

The Indian leader conferred with top British leaders about Red China's role and intentions in world affairs.

White House aides said Menon has an appointment with Secretary of State Dulles.

George said he was "very much impressed" because Menon told him in advance of the April conference at Bandung, Indonesia, that the United States and other western nations "might be happily surprised at the attitude of the Asian-African Conference."

The senator said the Asian diplomat said that while the conference would be opposed to colonialism it would also "be opposed to other forms of dictatorship."

The senator recalled that Menon, after a conference at Peking with Communist Premier Chou En lai of China, also predicted the release of four U.S. airmen, who had been held prisoner.

Farview Inmates All Recovered

SCRANTON, Pa., June 5 (AP)—Guards of the Farview State Hospital for the Criminal Insane to-night captured Mena Ross, 24, of Philadelphia, the last member of a band of 13 inmates who escaped from the hospital yesterday.

Ten inmates were picked up within an hour after the break early yesterday and four others were caught during the night.

A group of 20 guards, working on a tip from a farmer who spotted Ross, surrounded a wooded section near Honesdale, and waited about four hours before Ross gave up without offering any resistance.

The scene of the capture is about four miles southwest of the hospital, which is located 22 miles north of Scranton.

Negotiators Struggle To Avert Walkout

DETROIT, June 5 (AP)—Company and union negotiators worked doggedly for an auto industry labor agreement tonight against the threat of a midnight strike at the Ford Motor Co.

The heat was on the Ford phase of the bargaining, but talks were proceeding simultaneously between the CIO United Auto Workers Union and the giant General Motors Corp.

Ford negotiations were held at a downtown hotel, while the GM talks were taking place at the General Motors Building four miles away.

Despite the closeness of the Ford strike deadline there still were hopes that a settlement could be achieved. An agreement either at Ford or GM on the UAW's guaranteed wage and other demands would set a pattern for the rest of the auto industry.

One development taken as hopeful was a company request for an hour's extension on reconvening Ford sessions after a dinner break.

The union and company negotiators finally got the meeting going at 9:30 p.m.

Negotiators remained silent on what was going on. It was generally felt the Ford phase of the talks had advanced more rapidly than GM's, probably due to the imminent strike threat at Ford. The deadline for any GM strike is midnight Tuesday.

A strike among Ford's 140,000 workers would be the first companywide walkout there since 1941.

There was confusion about the actual time for a Ford walkout, UAW President Walter Reuther had told reporters it would occur at midnight if there was no settlement.

However, Carl Stellato, president of Local 600, representing nearly 50,000 at the huge Rouge plant at nearby Dearborn, told reporters there would be no strike at that plant until after a mass meeting at noon tomorrow.

As the midnight hour approached, the possibility rose that the talks might go right on, perhaps all night, in a final drive for a peace pact. Walkouts by some workers were expected in this event, but they would involve only skeleton night shifts of a relative few workers.

The Rouge plant night shift has 9,800 workers.

The GM negotiators indicated they too might be driving for an agreement tonight despite their 41 hour leeway against any strike before Tuesday.

Lou Seaton, GM director of industrial relations and the company's principal negotiator, said as far as he is concerned the GM talks could go on tonight "so long as they make sense."

John Livingston, UAW vice president and chief GM negotiator, said "I can't tell whether we'll be able to come to any agreement tonight or not."

Both company and union officials were watchful for any advance walkouts among Ford workers before the midnight deadline. However, President Carl Stellato of the UAW's biggest local, No. 600 in suburban Dearborn, said his 50,000 members would not strike before a mass meeting at noon tomorrow at the huge Ford Rouge plant in Dearborn.

Graham Preaches In Paris Church

PARIS, June 5 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham preached an American church here today as a prelude to his five-day Paris crusade.

Pews holding 600 persons were filled and scores of others stood in the rear of the church proper or overflowed into adjoining rooms to hear the 37-year-old preacher. Some even sat on the floor.

The church is the Episcopal American Cathedral in Paris, a few blocks off the Champs Elysees. Graham, who wore flowing black, green and scarlet robes, told the crowd of American expatriates "Something is wrong with our souls."

The Synod approved also a call for a national laymen's convention next November in Chicago. The Synod reported the Reformed Church would cooperate with the nation's Presbyterian churches in the publication Oct. 17 of a new Reformed Church hymnal, entitled "The Hymn Book."

The church's colleges reported an expenditure of $2,000,000 to be used next year for construction work on the campuses of three of its colleges.

Find Weapon In Boy's Death

SCRANTON, Pa., June 5 (P)—Police, after a two-day search, report the finding of a hunting knife, believed to have caused the death of Robert Coates, 13, of Mehoopany.

The knife was found in a field yesterday, wedged point upward, in a pile of rocks about 25 feet from the spot where the boy's body lay with stab wounds in the chest. The field is about a mile and a half from the Coates home.

No official report about the circumstances of the boy's death will be given until the knife is tested, Roy A. Garden, Wyoming County district attorney, said.

Police officials, however, were reported to believe the boy fell on the knife while climbing over rocks Thursday night after a fishing trip.

Teen Ager Operates Home Still

CHEYV CHASE, Md., June 5 (P)—Police said they found a 17-year-old high school youth was operating a homemade do-it-yourself alcohol still in the basement of his sumptuous home.

The officers seized the ingeniously contrived equipment plus 10 one-gallon jugs and three pint bottles containing a powerful brew flavored with root beer. The boy's mother said she believed her son was making the alcohol for use in chemistry laboratory burners and lamps.

But the police said they got word that the youth was selling and giving away the product of his still.

Lehigh U. Student Shoots Self

BETHLEHEM, Pa., June 5 (P)—Sherwin P. Arons, 21-year-old senior at Lehigh University, shot himself to death yesterday after he was ordered from a room where he was taking a final examination.

Arons was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Arons, Scarsdale, N.Y. His body was found in the car by pedestrians.

A major in business administration, Arons was taking an examination in "wills, estate and trusts" with Prof. Thomas Kubelius, assistant professor of law, a university spokesman said.

Detective Ralph Flemming, quoted Kubelius as saying he found Arons using crib notes, and in line with university regulations ordered Arons to leave the room.

Friends told Flemming that Arons was troubled over the examination and over the fact he was to be drafted into the army next week.

Republican Institutes For Counties

HERSHEY, Pa., June 5 (P)—Meetings will be held this summer to organize Republican Institutes in each of Pennsylvania's congressional districts — except Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties.

The newly formed organization called for the meetings at the concluding session of its two-day meeting here yesterday. In Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties one institute will serve for each of the congressional districts in those areas.

"It is felt that a great number of Republicans are convinced, rightly or wrongly, that they have not been given an appropriate opportunity to get together and identify themselves as members of the Republican party," said Roy Wilkinson, president of the new organization.

Discussion Center
"It will be the purpose of the Institute to provide mechanism by which these persons may get together and discuss their points of view on current problems facing the Republican party," Wilkinson said in a statement.

The Institute was founded in Hershey April 17 to "strengthen the Republican party."

Wilkinson said the Institutes in each county would hold two or three meetings in the summer to discuss matters affecting the party in their districts as well as in the state as a whole.

"The primary mission of the Institute on the state level will be to encourage formation of the congressional district institutes and to arrange for a meeting of all the members of all the institutes this fall," Wilkinson said.

Dean Margaret T. Corwin of Douglass College will present the seniors to Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the State University, who confers the degrees.

Miss Sarah G. Blanding, president of Vassar College, will give the commencement address, "An Habitual Vision of Greatness."

A graduate of East Stroudsburg High School, Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Miller of 248 Broadside Avenue, East Stroudsburg. A mathematics major, she has been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Miller was graduated with honors in mathematics. She was the holder of the Mabel Smith Douglass Scholarship, and was named on the Dean's List for academic achievement for three years. Miss Miller was student chairman of her resident dormitory.

Sentiment Rampant Last Week

By Joy Miller
NEW YORK, June 5 (P)—Sentiment was rampant last week.

In Hillsborough, Calif., it was a burglar who loved flowers. He made off with 20 flower pots from a house under construction. But first he removed the potted plants and painstakingly planted them in the front yard.

In New York it was a young thief who was romantic. He held up a pretty brunette at knife point on a Brooklyn subway platform. She didn't have any money to give him, so he stole a kiss before leaving.

With married couples sentiment was more strenuous than sweet. At St. Faith's, England, a blind Air Force veteran was quarreling with his wife. He smashed his right fist into his left palm to emphasize a point he was making—and suddenly he could see for the first time in 10 years. Well, the argument was forgotten, he kissed his wife and they went to the local pub to celebrate.

A wife went home in El Centro, Calif., after a session of judo instruction with the sheriff's women's reserve. Feeling pretty perky, she told her husband to swing at her. Confidently she raised her left hand to ward off the blow, just like the judo teacher had said. Picking herself up, she remembered her husband was a southpaw.

In the Davy Crockett set, the sentiment was one of hero worship. In Washington a 10-year-old demanded to see Crockett's rifle. The Smithsonian Institution hadn't advertised any such item, but the boy was adamant. "You've got to give your furs and woollens a summer vacation in our Cold Storage Vault" everything, haven't you?" Since he put it that way, the institution dug around and came up with a .41-caliber Deringer rifle. Davy used for target practice when he was in Washington.

Heroes, though, sometimes have clay feet even for youngsters. A small boy in Grafton, N. D., happily secured the autograph of the manager of the Grafton baseball team before a game. The first time at bat the manager struck out. The second time up, he did the same thing. As he trudged back to the dugout, the boy approached him again. "Got an eraser?" he asked.

BACCALAUREATE services were the center of attention last night in five Monroe County communities.

Seniors in Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Tobyhanna, Pocono and Barrett townships, their parents and friends, attended services held in four schools.

All four school districts will hold commencement exercises this week for their graduating students. The dates are: Barrett and Tobyhanna schools on Tuesday night; Pocono on Wednesday night; East Stroudsburg, Thursday night and Stroudsburg, Friday night.

At Pocono Pines school last night, an audience listened to a main sermon by Rev. George Jordan, Father Jordan is the Catholic priest in the Pocono Pines area.

The program opened with a procession by the school band. Rev. John Gangware, Pilgrim Holiness minister, gave the invocation. The benediction was delivered by Rev. Kenneth Heckman, Methodist pastor. The school chorus also provided music for services.

The sermon for Barrett's baccalaureate was given by Rev. William L. Donovan, assistant diocesan director of schools in the Scranton Diocese, Catholic Church. His theme was "Graduation and the Goal of Life."

Barrett baccalaureate opened with a procession, "Pomp and Circumstance" played by the school band. Rev. Harold N. MacMurray, Mountaineer Methodist Church, gave an invocation and Rev. Edgar B. Moore read the Scripture and gave the prayer.

The high school chorus, directed by Martin Pfeiffer and accompanied by Sylvia Thomas and Nancy Huguin, sang two selections. Rev. John R. Hoeman, Canadensis Moravian Church gave a benediction.

At Pocono Township High School, Tannersville, Rev. Leroy Bernard, Tannersville Methodist Church pastor, delivered the main sermon. The program was opened with a processionary march by the school band.

Rev. William Foose, Tannersville Reformed Church, gave the invocation. A trio, made up of the voices of Joan Werkheiser, Beverly Hartman and Elizabeth Fralley, sang "I Thank Thee Lord."

Rev. Charles F. Spangenberg, pastor of the Meisertown Church, gave the benediction. The band played a recessional march.

Stroudsburg High School baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. John A. Bollier, pastor of Stroudsburg First Presbyterian Church. His theme was "Conformed or Transformed?"

A high school band ensemble, directed by John Pyle, played the procession and recessional marches. Rev. Frank Blatt gave the invocation and Rev. P. N. Wohlens read from the Scripture. Blatt is pastor of Zion Reformed Church. Wohlens is pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church.

Rev. R. C. Stimson, pastor of Stroudsburg Methodist, recited an evening prayer. The benediction was given by Rev. Thomas Shoemaker, rector of Christ Episcopal Church.

Rev. Norman R. Savage, pastor of First Baptist Church, gave the main sermon at baccalaureate services for East Stroudsburg High School seniors in the Junior High auditorium. He had chosen "The Wasteful Huntsman" as his topic.

Elizabeth Knierim and Joan Smith played the procession, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Sir Edward Elgar. Rev. John A. Esch, St. Matthew's Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg, gave the invocation.

Rev. B. H. Hostetter, pastor of Christian Alliance Church, read Psalm 67; Rabbi William Flervier read from Psalm 37; Rev. Harold C. Eaton read from the Book of Luke and Rev. Frank W. Wingerter gave the evening prayer. Flervier is rabbi for Temple Israel; Eaton is pastor of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church and Wingerter is pastor of East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, gave the benediction. The recessional, "Coronation March" was played by Sarah Hostetter and Joan Smith.

Car Runs Up On Home Porch

A CAR driven by a 17-year-old East Stroudsburg boy ran up on the porch of a N. Courtland St. residence last night at 10:30.

The driver of the car, borough police said, was William T. McGarry, of 144 Analomink St. The car was owned by his father, Francis B. McGarry, same address, police said.

McGarry told police he put on the brakes and "nothing happened." The car came down Sixth St., crossed N. Courtland, ran between two trees, missed the porch on one house and hit the second porch, police said.

The house was occupied by Emily H. Kinnaman, 607 N. Courtland St. Passengers in the car were Francis Ashcroft, 18, of 156 Analomink and Thomas Ingraham, 18, of 204 Analomink. Police said McGarry had suffered a possible cut lip.

AN HONORED GUEST at the Y dedication was Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store founder and Monroe County resident, whose large contribution to the building fund, combined with the donations of hundreds of others made the new structure possible. Kresge is shown here in a moment of reminiscence as he directed brief remarks to the audience. Crowd more than filled Y gymnasium. (Staff Photo by Carlton)

Reader To Seek Break In Deadlock Over Leader Classified Income Taxes

HARRISBURG, June 5 (AP)—Rep. Albert S. Readinger, House Democratic floor leader, said today he will seek to break the deadlock on Gov. Leader's 411 million dollar classified income tax plan by July 15.

"We hope to sound out sentiment for a possible floor vote by that date," he told a newsman. "We're confident it will pass the House."

But despite Readinger's optimism two of his fellow House Democrats—Reps. Daniel A. Verone (D—Allegheny) and Matt S. Anderson (D—Allegheny)—insisted there were a dozen or more Democrats against the plan.

Anderson last week said 16 House Democrats, more than enough to defeat the income tax in the face of solid Republican opposition, would stand "like the Rock of Gibraltar" against the levy.

Readinger previously took the position there would be no House vote on the income levy unless he felt confident it would pass. There was nothing in his new declaration to indicate that his position on this was changed.

The classified income levy has not even been discussed by the House ways and means committee since it was introduced in April as Leader's suggestion for balancing the Commonwealth's $1,800,000,000 budget for the current biennium.

Oppose Recess
Meanwhile, Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, Senate Republican floor leader, said he is opposed to taking a summer recess, adding:

"There is not much need for radically new laws. I would like to get everything out of the way so that we can take up our biggest problem—raising the revenue to pay Pennsylvania's expenses."

Mahany and other Republicans have expressed unqualified opposition to the income levy.

In a weekend statement, Miles Horst, Republican state chairman, made the GOP's position clear—that his party would stand by until Democrats produce a tax program acceptable to it.

"He said Democrats have staged 'what amounts to a sitdown strike on his (Leader's) wage and income tax plan to finance his enormous spending program' and are trying to shift responsibility to the GOP."

"It just won't work," said Horst. "The governor must sell his tax-and-spend plans to his own legislators before he goes looking for Republican support for any increased taxes."

Meanwhile, Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman said the Republican state executive committee's stand to oppose the Democratic tax program is the "most violent abuse" of legislative power in the Commonwealth's history.

"If that's the way it's to be," said Barr, "the legislature will be here when the snow flies."

The GOP group on Thursday announced continuation of its opposition to the income levy. Its action meant that Republicans, in the majority in the Senate, would oppose the income tax even if it passed the House.

Barr added:

"It is becoming increasingly evident that had the Republicans won last year's election, the same old deadly, mossback system of deficit financing and indolent habit of sweeping old debts into a corner for future generations to worry about, would have been the governing policy."

Three Cars In Delayed Crash; Driver Fined

FRANK MIKA, 19, of Paterson, N. J., paid $13.50 fine and costs on a charge of driving too fast for conditions Saturday night on Foxtown Hill.

Stroudsburg borough police said Mika's car ran into the rear of a car driven by Adams Weiss, 50 of Pottstown RD3. The Weiss car was driven off the right side of the road and into guardrails.

A passenger in Mika's car — Mary Syracino, 20 of Paterson — was treated for four broken front teeth at Monroe County General Hospital.

Combined damage to the two vehicles was placed at about $1,700 police said. The accident was indirectly the cause of a second crash 15 minutes later, police reported.

The Mika-Weiss crash occurred at 9:15 p.m. during a rainstorm. Police said Mika and Weiss were traveling northwest on Route 611.

On the Stroudsburg side of Foxtown Hill, Mika's car ran into the rear of the Weiss vehicle. Weiss told police he had slowed down because he saw a double line of cars and thought there might be an accident ahead.

The Weiss car—a 1950-model sedan—was almost totally demolished, police said. Front wheels of the car were snapped off by the impact of the crash with the guardrails, police reported, and the rear of the car was lifted off the frame. Damage was estimated at $1,200.

Three passengers in the Weiss car were Aurelia Weckwert, 34; Ingrid Weckwert, 13 and Dick Everitt, 14, Delaware Water Gap. No one in the Weiss car was injured, police said. A third person in the Mika car — Mrs. Nancy Martinez, 21 of Paterson — was uninjured, police said.

Mika was taken before Justice of Peace Marshall Neyhart, East Stroudsburg, on the "too fast for conditions" charge. Neyhart ordered him to pay the $10 fine and costs.

A second accident occurred 15 minutes later at the same spot while police were still investigating the first. According to officer Richard Wolbert, who was in charge of the investigation, he was writing down information on the Mika-Weiss crash and a fellow officer, Loren Doty, was directing traffic past the wreck scene.

Doty attempted to flag down an oncoming vehicle driven by George William Transue, 19 of Blairtown RD4. Transue's car failed to stop when he applied brakes, the brakes "grabbed" and the vehicle began sliding down the hill sideways, police said.

When Transue got the car partially under control it swerved across the line of traffic on the left side of the road and into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Sophie Ackerman, Stroudsburg, police reported. Mrs. Ackerman was traveling south at the time. Damage to Transue's car were estimated at $100 and at $50 to the Ackerman vehicle, police said. No one was injured in the second crash.

Milk Control Commission To Open Series Of Hearings On Request For Reduced Prices

HARRISBURG, June 5 (AP)—The State Milk Control Commission, acting on recommendations of Gov. Leader, tomorrow begins a series of nine hearings to look into the possibility of reducing consumer prices on certain sales.

The first hearing is set for Harrisburg to take in the Harrisburg milk marketing area. During the next four weeks the commission will conduct hearings at York, Lancaster, Reading, Pittsburgh, Erie, Hollidaysburg, Pottsville and Williamsport. Presenting testimony will be producers, consumers, dealers, commonwealth witnesses and other interested parties.

The Republican-controlled commission scheduled the hearings May 26, less than a week after the governor suggested differentials between home delivered and store bought milk should be extended throughout the state and that quantity buyers should receive a break. The governor, in making his recommendations to the board, said if they did not act he would introduce legislation to carry out his beliefs.

Each hearing, except in Pittsburgh, will last a day. The sessions also will review the problem of milk sold to state hospitals.

Find Bodies Of Grandad, Two Children

LOWVILLE, June 5 (AP)—Searchers today recovered the bodies of a 54-year-old man and two of his grandchildren who perished when an automobile plunged through a bridge guard rail and into the rushing Black River.

The body of a third grandchild still was missing.

Police identified the victims as Milan Stoffle of Lowville, and the three children of Mr. and Mrs. James Klossner—James, 6, Diane, 4, and Patricia, 2, of Constableville.

Klossner and his wife, Geraldine, escaped from the car after it plummeted from the bridge yesterday. The six persons were returning from nearby Watson, where they had been attending the wedding of Stoffle's daughter, Rita, Mrs. Klossner's sister.

Patricia's body was recovered last night. Those of Diane, who had been a flower girl at the wedding, and Stoffle were found today. The body of James, who had served as a ring bearer, still was missing in late afternoon.

State Police said that Klossner was driving the car when it failed to make a turn at the bridge, crashed through the rail and dropped 20 feet into the river. It floated downstream about 100 feet, then sank in 20 feet of water.

Newfoundland Blood Donors Due Tuesday

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Red Cross bloodmobile makes its annual visit here Tuesday between the hours of 1 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Officials of the local American Legion post and its Auxiliary are hopeful of securing at least 100 donors although early estimates of pledges made indicate that the total will fall short of the quota.

Local residents who have not yet volunteered to give blood are urged to contact members of the sponsoring units as soon as possible so that scheduling arrangements can be made.

Mrs. Charles Smith, South Sterling, who heads the committee in charge, said last night that "walk-ins" on the day of the visit would be welcome but stated that appointments would facilitate the operation.

The mobile unit will be set up in the quarters of the Greene-Dreher Volunteer Firemen's association.

Demand For 1955 College Graduates Looks Better Than It Has In Great Many Years

There used to be an old cliché to the effect that a few months after graduation, the new alumni stopped observing that they were willing to consider a position and began to admit they were looking for any kind of a paying job.

Maybe this is still true among those who have not taken college courses in science, but it most certainly is not true for young men and women who have had excellent training and made fine records in the majority of the scientific fields. They need not look hopefully about, for they are already being sought by the big corporations constantly in need of young talent.

As we read the newspapers these days, we observe commencement exercises in just about every college and university town in the state, and in every other state, and we sometimes wonder how our economy will absorb all the youngsters emerging from the halls of learning with their brand new diplomas.

We really should not wonder, however, for reports say that the demand for physicists, chemists, electronics engineers, geologists and men with training in sales and retailing is greater than ever before in our national history. As a matter of fact, all of our 1955 graduates in whatever field they have applied themselves should find the outlook for a good job with good pay materially more favorable than it was even a year ago.

This is true both for men and women, and because most of this year's graduates were born in the early '30s when a low birth rate accompanied the depression of those times, there should be less competition for jobs this year than will be seen five years from now when the higher birth rate of the late '30s will be reflected in the number of graduates.

Col. Jacob Mauck's Thirty Eight Years Of Service With State Police Excellent

In the recent retirement of Col. Jacob C. Mauck from the Pennsylvania State Police after 38 years of service in that famous organization, the Commonwealth is deprived of the wealth of mature police experience built up over that long period of years by the deputy commission of the force.

Col. Mauck, a Jefferson County man who rose from the ranks to become the second-in-command for more than 12 years, is a quiet, disciplined trooper whose service to his native Commonwealth in his chosen profession has been outstanding.

The big man who leaves a wealth of friends both within and without the State Police as he steps down from his active career, always carried himself with dignified reserve and his studied opinion of police affairs was constantly sought.

This newspaper joins his friends throughout the Commonwealth in congratulating him on his distinguished career and in wishing him well as he retires from the active post he so ably filled.

Enforcement Answer To Traffic Problems, Not Another Legislative Investigation

Without any doubt the matter of traffic safety in Pennsylvania is as essential a subject for needed improvement as any other element in the state, but we cannot become very excited over the latest legislative resolution asking the Joint State Government Commission to study it and report to the next General Assembly.

The reason we regard it with a jaundiced eye is that studies, investigations, and just plain observation of the increasing traffic woes of our Commonwealth have been made, ad nauseum, with the chief answer to the problems always plain to see but too frequently ignored.

The answer, we contend, is a one-word solution: ENFORCEMENT.

Human nature being what it is, all of us will continue to get away with as much as possible in our driving habits, especially if we get only a slap on the wrist for our shortcomings. But just as surely, strict and impartial enforcement of our motor laws would bring us up short.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Democrats Must Destroy Ike Politically, Or Invite Defeat In Next Big Campaign

The 1956 Presidential election is now at the stage when candidates, in the opposition party, are becoming more numerous and more ident. Already the appearance of Adlai Stevenson has an inside track, but he cannot count on New York State, whose candidate will be Averell Harriman despite details of interest. And that will make an enormous difference to Stevenson's chance of nomination.

Should President Eisenhower want to be re-nominated, he will be, and the probability is that he will be re-elected. In the event that Eisenhower is nominated, the Democratic candidate will have to be one who, for one reason or another, is willing to risk running to lose. There is no logical reason why Stevenson should do that again, although his 1952 experience was not so unfortunate. Comparatively unknown outside Illinois and limited circles in Washington, he became a national figure. In fact, his speeches were of a quality not heard in recent Presidential campaigns and gave him the reputation of being a superior mind.

On the other hand, Averell Harriman is intent upon running no matter what may be said to the contrary. Carmine DeSapio, who manages Democratic affairs in New York, is insistent upon Harriman making a real effort.

DeSapio now controls his party in both New York City and New York State. If Harriman should be nominated and elected, DeSapio would be the leader of the Democratic Party in the nation.

There is this to say about DeSapio: he is different from any previous leader of Tammany Hall. His view of public affairs is broad and liberal. No matter how he reached the top, he tolerates none of the gangster characteristics which have made Tammany a by-word since the days of Aaron Burr. I think it was Herbert Bayard Swope who, pointing to DeSapio in profile, called attention to his resemblance to an ascetic Cardinal. There is a compulsion to power but it seems to have a good purpose. At any rate, while Carmine DeSapio is not a candidate, he is likely to be the central figure in the 1956 Democratic Convention.

Despite the fact that President Eisenhower sits in the White House as a Republican, the majority party of the United States is the Democratic Party. It gained in 1954 over 1952 and there is little hope in the Republican Party that that gain will be upset in 1956. It is not likely to be upset in the Senate because of the particular vacancies available in that year.

The Four Power Conference can help Eisenhower but a strike such as that which Walter Reuther is calling in the Ford Company can hurt him. The Four Power Conference can benefit Eisenhower, but not particularly the Republican Party which is not responsible for it and the leadership of which is antagonistic to it. On the other hand, strikes always influence the vote for Senators and Representatives and therefore a major automobile or steel strike can lessen the chances of the Republicans in marginal states, such as Michigan and Ohio. It is close enough to the 1956 campaign for strikes which may occur between now and then to influence votes.

In the British campaign, prosperity and peace were the two principal issues and they won the day for the Tories. These issues are inadequate for the 1956 campaign in the United States because many local issues arise here which can seem at the moment equally or more important. One of those issues will be the tariff, which, while it is nationally not a vital one, is on a local level of tremendous importance to those who find employment reduced because of imports of particular commodities. A Senator or a Representative can lose the election over the tariff, whereas it would not affect the Presidential candidate at all, not even in that state.

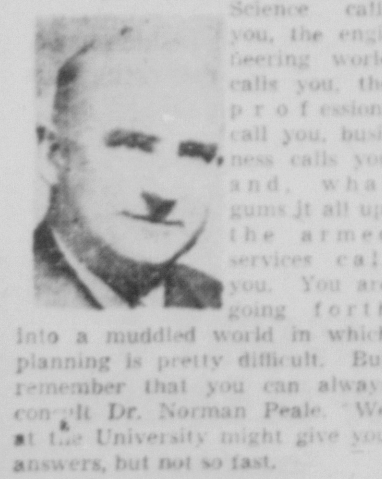

The Democratic prospect of defeating Eisenhower depends on how unpleasant the Democrats can make it for him, particularly if bad and dramatic cases of corruption can be turned up by Congressional committees. The Democrats are likely to be active in zest as the campaign approaches.

The Democrats who have given President Eisenhower the impression that they are supporting him must either seek to destroy him politically or invite defeat. They will do the best they can to avoid defeat if they find a target. As they are in control of Congressional committees, they are doing the best they can,

The Once Over

Gentlemen of the Graduating Class: Your theme song might well be "I Hear You Calling Me."

Science calls you, the engineering world calls you, the professions call you, business calls you, and what guns it all up, the armed services call you. You are going forth into a muddled world in which planning is pretty difficult. But remember that you can always consult Dr. Norman Peale. "We at the University might give you answers, but not so fast."

You may gather some comfort from signs that it is not as bleak as it has been. Even the grownups seem less quarrelsome. Tito and the Kremlin have just had cocktails together. Leo Du-rocher hasn't been thrown out of a game in almost a week. It's several months since Godfrey fired anybody. These are encouraging omens. You will not enjoy the same advantages that were enjoyed when college graduates were somewhat rare. Today it is generally accepted that a boy who has not been to college must have won a lot of money on a quiz program when too young correctly to judge the prime requirements for a good future. You will at least step into a sense of full employment, even if some of it is directed by a top sergeant. I wish you well.

If you haven't much physical strength, tire easily and favor the short stay at any task you can always try work as a big-league baseball pitcher. It seemed to me that this year the college should have cut the diploma and given each of you a Geiger counter. That way, from what I read in the papers, lies success. A college president's task in advising a boy what to do in the present world is colossal. And besides, you're not listening closely. Just remember your Alma Mater has done her best by you for four years, your hat checking problems have been utterly absent and you can still dream of a Jaguar, can't you? Good luck. And, as your mother says, don't forget to bring home your laundry.

My America

We Should Frighten Reds With Our Own Air Display

SOMETIMES I think the Marquis of Queensberry did us a great disservice.

He and his rules of prize-ring etiquette helped instill in the English-speaking peoples a fixation for fair play and sportsmanship that handicaps us sorely for the cold-war fighting.

Not that I am beating the drum for a return to eye-gouging, rabbit-punching or any of the more uncouth techniques of human disputation. There are effective fighting tactics that are just naturally distasteful to civilized men and I hold no brief for them. Some holds ought to be barred, even in war.

But I do think we might take a little more advantage of the gullibility of our adversaries without jeopardizing our amateur standing.

Washington has been in a turmoil lately because of what our observers saw in the recent May Day parade of Russian armed might. In the skies over Moscow they were dismayed to glimpse mammoth jet bombers and sleek advanced fighter planes nobody suspected the Russians could have.

Their reports caused such consternation that congress may wind up whooping the ante several billion dollars to make sure this country holds the lead in the development of modern air power. And millions of citizens doubtless will howl to high heaven because it doesn't spend even more—which maybe it should.

Now, if what they think they see 10,000 feet in the air can scare American military observers it can do the same to Russian military observers. Why don't we unlimber our ingenuity a little and really give them something to look at and think about?

But maybe we don't have any advanced aircraft that would scare the Russians, you say. So maybe we don't. But who says they have to see what they think they're seeing?

Surely an American technological genius that can streamline can-openers, make bridge lamps that look like Marilyn Monroe and fashion 12-story Davy Crockett for Santa Claus parades could do some fairly startling cosmetic work on high-flying aircraft.

Why not stage a military air show that would include a squadron of heavy bombers with spider legs? Or a mock-atomic plane with an 80-foot nose and four tails? Or as batch of old B-29s embellished with strange sponge-rubber knobs and protuberances?

Or how about getting the Walt Disney studios to rig up some airplanes as Martian-like flying saucers, complete with cups. Or, better yet, a planned display of some of those optical illusions with which the authorities explain the flying saucers people keep seeing?

Sure, all this wouldn't be quite cricket. And such fantastic apparitions in the sky wouldn't make sense to observers well grounded in aerodynamics.

But wouldn't the Russian military plane designers go nuts trying to figure out what we were up to and how they could catch up?

Robert S. Allen Reports

Menon's Formosa Plan Is Formula Not A Solution

Washington, June 6—A three-point formula is largely the basis of those secret diplomatic discussions on ways and means of settling the Formosa crisis.

The U. S. is cool toward key features of the plan. However, no position has been taken on it as a whole.

pending the forthcoming talks between Secretary of State Dulles and Ambassador Krishna Menon.

The Indian diplomat, main author of the formula, is privately claiming that Red China approved it "in principle" during his recent trip there. His Peiping visit was followed by the release of four of the 15 American airmen held by the Communists in violation of the 1953 Korean armistice terms.

Congressional leaders understand that Menon's proposal is not a peace pact as such, but a method by which a cease-fire might be negotiated. It is a process and not a solution.

His primary aim is to halt the fighting in the Formosa area, and not to settle the Formosa problem.

Menon and Premier Nehru, who is working closely with him, are proceeding on the theory that the first objective is to "put out the dangerous fire, so as to prevent it from becoming a general conflagration (war)," and then to seek a more lasting accord.

As explained to congressional leaders, the three highlights of Menon's formula are as follows:

Set up a five-power commission to formulate the provisions of a true agreement. The U. S. and Red China would each designate two of the countries which would be represented on this commission, and the fifth would be India—or some other neutral nation.

Simultaneously, the Nationalists to renounce all intentions of invading the Chinese mainland.

Also to withdraw all military forces from the nine offshore islands still held by the Nationalists.

President Eisenhower was specifically referring to this third proposal when he told his press conference last week that he saw no reason, at this time, why Quemoy and Matsu Islands should be evacuated. When the President made this statement, its full significance was not understood.

It is now authoritatively known that the real import of the President's comment was to serve notice that the Nationalists' coastal outposts will not be relinquished before a cease-fire. They may be given up as part of such an agreement, but not prior to it. The U. S. considers that wholly unacceptable, and the President took the opportunity to proclaim it personally.

Note: The Nationalists now have approximately 75,000 troops on the offshore islands. Also, some 75 World War II tanks have been added to the Quemoy and Matsu defenses, plus radar installations to guard against the Reds' increasing air strength in this area.

Taking No Chances—These reinforcements are only part of the measures being taken to meet the Reds' menacing build-up against Formosa.

President Eisenhower has approved a number of significant moves.

Recommended by Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the far-reaching developments are primarily designed to insure that the U. S. will completely control all military forces in the Formosa area in the event of a Communist offensive.

That is, if there is fighting, then the U. S. will be in command and not the Nationalists. The latter will operate under U. S. commanders.

This American command will be in the hands of the Navy. A group of admirals close to Radford have been shifted to key positions in the new Formosa set-up. Unlike the recent appointment of Admiral Arleigh Burke as Chief of Naval Operations, these momentous assignments have not been publicized. But every one of them is a Radford selection.

Foremost among these highly important developments are:

Admiral Alfred M. Pride, commander of the Seventh Fleet, has also been designated as commander of all Formosa forces in the event of a Red assault. Pride's authority would cover all U. S. and Nationalist naval, ground and air units on Formosa and the coastal islands.

A Formosa Liaison Center has been established, which would automatically become headquarters of the combined command, under Pride, in the event of war. At present, this Liaison Center is primarily engaged in defense planning with the Nationalists.

THERE ARE about 10,000 night club dolls but things are so tough you see about 4,000 employed at any one time.

The costumes many wear in the better spots cost more than their salary for a month. Their average wage is $75 per week—less in the hinterland. Top salary is paid by the Copacabana in New York. Average: $100. Most of them are hired for only 12 weeks but the Latin Quarter here has kept a chorus-line for 2 years. The reason the girls look sweet and fresh (instead of ultra) is that the out-of-town patrons prefer them that way. The job isn't easy. Usually have to be in by 7 p.m. and leave about 3 a.m. Rarely get a night off. Mainly because some gal reports ill. The Captain of the line is the hardest worker, as a rule. She must be there at all times—to pinch-hit for a sick one and besides she has to watch every girl to see that the precision is working. She rehearses them, too.

The only resemblance today's chorus girls have to their Roaring 20's sisters is in physical appearance. They are still beautiful. As for being dumb—graduate have IQ's higher than college graduates, and many are graduates. In their off-hours they discuss subjects like Stravinsky and philosophy. And as for gold-digging they usually marry the lads they work with—performers, writers and artists. Their idea of a good date is a soda with a hamburger.

Never heard of Barbara Doherty eh? Well, she's pretty hot stuff. Several Summers ago she was flown over to Prague—just to model shoes. Her foot is That Perfect. (Both feet, that is) Fern Whitney? Such a doll. Fern had never been in a night club until she danced in one professionally. Lou Walters? Quits at the Latin Q. he no doops. They help a Bronx car dealer sell Cadillacs. They get 10 percent. Often make $200 per week. The average chorus girl's age is 17 to 27. Rockettes make less than $4,000 a year. They spend $1,000 at least on off-stage apparel. Billie Dove, Paulette Goddard and Marion Davies (all crashed the Hollywood Heavens) started with Ziegfeld as show-girls. Top salary today for a girl "of the line" is $200 per week.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The town was certainly festive yesterday. All those smooth and sophisticated college students home with the outfits they wore for spring festivities ready to dazzle the home-town folks added a note of glamour. Give them a week and the blue jeans and ankle socks will be back in the groove.

Most time-conscious group in town right now are the seniors flashing graduation gift watches and ostentatiously checking the time every few minutes.

The YMCA dedication, of course, kept people from changing from their church-going clothes to the sitting-around-in-the-back-yard variety, especially with baccalaureate services to go to at night.

Altogether we stayed much more dressed up than usual, and much more in evidence than on a usual Sunday afternoon when everybody sort of disappears except the tourists.

However, I wasn't entirely happy about the weekend. There were too many weddings that were waiting for pictures to go with them to suit me—or the social page. However think what fun it is going to be come mid-week time.

10 billion underfoot
If all the rugs and carpets in use in the United States had to be replaced tomorrow, the cost would exceed 10 billion dollars. That's enough money to build 1,000,000 small $10,000 bungalows, or to buy 5,000,000 new $2,000 cars.

"The housewife who allows her rugs and carpets to get dirty gets a poor return on her share of this 1-billion-dollar investment," says Walt Melinkoff of Mountain Rug & Carpet Co. "Dirt is a carpet killer," he added.

For years various commercial and nonprofit laboratories have been interested in the effect of dirt on fabrics. There is little disputing that dirt is harmful to textiles, says Melinkoff. Dirt wears fabrics out faster and badly discolors them. Dirt masks textiles with a coat of grays.

It is important, says The National Institute of Rug Cleaning, that rugs be given light daily care. A good light-weight carpet sweeper is ideal for this. Then, a more thorough vacuuming once or twice a week should follow. Periodic professional care is likewise essential. Professional cleaning of rugs and carpets once or twice a year will remove the deep dirt that will always get into the base of the nap, regardless of daily or weekly care.

Choir Honors Organist At Bridal Shower

The choir of St. John's Lutheran Church honored the church organist, Miss Eleanor Decker, at a surprise bridal shower following choir rehearsal on Thursday night. Miss Decker is to be married on Saturday, June 11, to Ralph Bender Jr. Mr. Bender was a guest at the party, as was the pastor, Rev. P. N. Wohlsen.

Practically all of the choir was present, and brought gifts for a kitchen shower. Refreshments and a social time followed the presentation of gifts. The shower came as a complete surprise to Miss Decker.

Legion Auxiliary Nears Quota In Membership
The American Legion Auxiliary to George N. Kemp Post 346, with 347 members to date, needs only 11 more to meet the quota. New members accepted at the meeting on Thursday night were: Mrs. Catherine Heffer, Mrs. Fernie Quinn, Mrs. Emily Schoener, and Mrs. Hilda Wolfe.

Mrs. Martha Koch, membership chairman, also reported that 16 of the junior members sold poppies during the recent poppy sale. Mrs. Gertrude Blitz, poppy chairman, reported on poppy sales and thanked those who had helped to make it a success.

Mrs. Ruth Eppley presided at the business meeting. Future events announced included the Four-County Council meeting on June 11 at Nesquehoning, when officers will be elected; a party for the children workers will be given in the near future.

Reports were given. Mrs. Viola Heffer, Americanism chairman, reported that medals were being presented to winners in the various schools; Mrs. Emily Mount read a letter from the auxiliary's adopted boy at Scotland School.

Officers were elected for the new year which will start in the Fall. Mrs. Gertrude Blitz is president; Mrs. Viola Heffer, first vice president; Mrs. Florence Hoffman, second vice president; Mrs. Madelyn Shepps, recording secretary; Mrs. Catherine Reid, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Beattie Marek, treasurer; Mrs. Elva Knowles, historian; Mrs. Mary Heid, chaplain; and Mrs. Mary Altomose, Mrs. Vera Fennel, Mrs. Lulu Miller and Mrs. Eva Shoemaker, sergeants at arms.

Delegates for the state convention to be held at Pittsburgh include: Mrs. Ruth Eppley, Mrs. Gertrude Blitz, Mrs. Martha Koch, Mrs. Mary Altomose; alternates, Mrs. Viola Heffer, Mrs. Catherine Reid, Mrs. Florence Hoffman and Mrs. Lulu Miller.

Following the meeting, strawberry shortcake was served by Mrs. Lorraine Heckman, Mrs. Martha Koch and their committee.

Progressive Womans Club Banquet Tuesday
Mrs. Clement Heist is general chairman of the Progressive Woman's Club banquet which will be served Wednesday night June 8, at the Bartonsville Hotel.

Reservations are to be made no later than June 6, with Mrs. Robert Altomose, Mrs. Marvin Krome or Mrs. Arlington Martin.

Others on the arrangement committee are Mrs. Craig Mitchell, Mrs. Lydia Howerter, Mrs. Carl Kresge, Mrs. Frank Varney, Mrs. Kenneth Achey, Mrs. Melvin Weiss Jr., Mrs. Gordon Shupp and Mrs. Weston Fennel Jr. An interesting program has been arranged which will include several selections from the Melodettes.

10 billion underfoot
If all the rugs and carpets in use in the United States had to be replaced tomorrow, the cost would exceed 10 billion dollars. That's enough money to build 1,000,000 small $10,000 bungalows, or to buy 5,000,000 new $2,000 cars.

"The housewife who allows her rugs and carpets to get dirty gets a poor return on her share of this 1-billion-dollar investment," says Walt Melinkoff of Mountain Rug & Carpet Co. "Dirt is a carpet killer," he added.

For years various commercial and nonprofit laboratories have been interested in the effect of dirt on fabrics. There is little disputing that dirt is harmful to textiles, says Melinkoff. Dirt wears fabrics out faster and badly discolors them. Dirt masks textiles with a coat of grays.

It is important, says The National Institute of Rug Cleaning, that rugs be given light daily care. A good light-weight carpet sweeper is ideal for this. Then, a more thorough vacuuming once or twice a week should follow. Periodic professional care is likewise essential. Professional cleaning of rugs and carpets once or twice a year will remove the deep dirt that will always get into the base of the nap, regardless of daily or weekly care.

Sebring Has Mower Unit

THERE'S a remarkable new power mower now on display at G. W. Sebring and Son, 1103 North 5th St., Stroudsburg.

It's called the Henderson "Contour" and it's neither a reel type or a rotary. For "safety plus", it's the ideal family power mower because it mows everything, yet can harm no one!

New, exclusive "Cyclo-Safe" cutter teeth whip through grass, weeds, heavy stalks, matted growth, wet or dry. Yet the "Contour" won't throw sticks, stones or blades. Instead it traps solid objects and expels them safely. It trims, mows and mulches and at the same time gives you and your family "safety plus". See the new Henderson "Contour" demonstrated this week at G. W. Sebring and Son N. 5th St. showroom.

West Must Come Up With Fast Offensive To Stop Offensive Being Made By Commie Group

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE COMMUNIST world diplomatic offensive is making impressive strides forward. The West, and particularly the United States, may have to come up soon with a strikingly dramatic move if the Red advance is to be slowed.

The advantage still should be on the side of the West, but there is always a danger that important skirmishes will be lost by default. One way to default is to permit the Soviet Union to choose all the diplomatic battlegrounds. That would keep the West permanently on the defensive.

Moscow is going to attempt — when and if the meeting of government chiefs comes off — to choose its own battleground with regard to Germany and European tensions. It will pose as the champion of German reunification, of mutual security and peaceful coexistence, and it will claim the right to issue the only acceptable definitions of those terms. The West now should be studying ways and means of wresting that claim from the Communists.

The Communists' position in Germany should be highly vulnerable. They are the offenders, and have been ever since the war. It was the Communists who seized and annexed Germany's eastern territories. It was the Communists who blockaded Berlin. It was the Communists who sealed off and attempted to sovietize Germany's eastern agricultural breadbasket.

The Communist side remains wide open to the charge of rampant imperialism. The West has only to point to the failure of the Soviet Union to return Poland's eastern half to that country after the war, to say nothing of the annexations of Moldavia, Bukhovina, the Baltic States and a slice of Finland. The Russians still hold important territories seized from Japan as booty for a few days of participation in the war against the Japanese.

The Russians are now lavishing new attention on Japan, obviously hoping to hang up a new trophy in their world neutralization drive.

The conclusion of the Soviet-Yugoslav negotiations is being hailed by the Moscow press as a triumph of Kremlin diplomacy. There is no point to denying that it represents a Soviet gain. Tito's Yugoslavia has subscribed down the line to all the world Communist principles and aims. If this has no other effect than to damage Western confidence in Yugoslavia, it will have accomplished its purpose for the Russians — another shot in the arm for the neutralization drive.

More and more Red attention is centered on Italy, where the political center as represented by the SATURDAY was Dick Gray Day in East Stroudsburg and the special day was proclaimed by every baseball fan in the borough and especially those present at Heginns when the Cavaliers rode to a 3-2 victory over Heginns Township and their first District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association baseball championship in history. It's tough to crowd all the highlights into these confines today, so we'll just sort of ramble about the thrilling contest for the next couple of days.

Although it's difficult to assemble all the information into this small space, it's not tough to find an opening subject. The manner in which Gray lasted his game winning home run to right, center field with two outs and the game apparently destined to go into overtime, couldn't have been pictured by even the most careless of fiction writers. It was almost impossible and certainly unexpected. But it happened, and the feat couldn't have been accomplished by a nicer kid.

Gray, one of the top hitters on the East Stroudsburg club this season, tapped to the mound on his first appearance at bat Saturday and then fanned on his second trip to the plate. The third time up he was hit by a pitched ball and scored the first run of the game for the Cavaliers. Helmut Gartner and Gene Plaza had fanned in the home half of the seventh and final inning and Gray worked the count to one ball and a single strike before finding the range for the most important home run ever hit by an East Stroudsburg baseball player.

The ball was hit between and beyond the center and right fielder. They both raced for the ball, but it hit the ground and rolled away from them. The two outfielders bumped together momentarily and that was all the time East Stroudsburg second baseman needed to circle the bases. He slid across the plate, even though the relay was slightly off the plate, and that was the last scribe saw of Gray for several minutes. He never got off the ground before his almost delirious teammates pounced on him.

The pile of humanity was bigger than that which results from a line plunge in football. When Dick finally got to his feet and freed himself from the hugs and slaps of his teammates, he was besieged by his parents and adult fans.

Saturday's victory was by no means a one-man decision. It was team decision in every phase of the game. Starting with Bill Sommers and working right down to the substitute who didn't play an inning this year, one can find that each individual on the squad added his bit to the championship. Sommers, finished the campaign with a remarkable number of 10 victories, while being charged with only two defeats.

A high school pitcher winning 10 games is almost unheard of, but Bill turned the trick magnificently this season. He was greatly assisted by the play of catcher Charley "Snook" Litts, a transplanted outfielder; Gene Plaza, pepper-pot third baseman; Bill Pensyl, smooth fielding first baseman; Jerry "Moose" Zeman and Paul Hoffman, two shortstops; and the outfield trio of Bob "Red" Kupiszewski, Tom Michaels and Helmut Gartner. Of course there were others, but those mentioned in this paragraph were the main cogs in the victory machine.

One of the big men in Saturday's much deserved victory by the Cavaliers was Curt Hickman, sophomore outpaw pitcher, although he appeared in only two innings. The number two hurler on the club, who started only two games this season, was sent to the plate to bat for Pensyl in the sixth, with his team trailing 2-0, runners on first and second and two outs. The Bushkill resident pumped a single past first to plate the first run and keep the Cavaliers alive.

Michael, another of East Stroudsburg's heroes on Saturday, notched his second hit of the contest right after Hickman to score the deadlocking counter. The rest of the story was all Gray. The quiet, modest kid bashed the homer and took all the praise in stride. The last I saw Dick on Saturday he was disappearing toward the player-bus, carrying his home run bat in his hands. The finish to Saturday's game was the biggest thrill ever presented this scribe since first taking over this job nine years ago and it's one I'll never forget.

after a relay from Tom Michaels in center field. Romberger was trapped off second a moment later for the final out.

Gray opened the home half of the sixth by being hit with a pitch, but Sommers struck out. Charley "Snook" Litts drew a walk to put runners on first and second. Bob "Red" Kupiszewski flied out to right for the second out and the situation appeared hopeless for the Cavaliers who had traveled more than 90 miles for the title battle.

But a bench warmer and a lightly regarded hitter came to the front to save the day for the visiting purple and white color bearers.

Coach Jack Kist made his move at this point and inserted Curt Hickman, number two pitcher, into the game as a pinch hitter for first baseman Bill Pensyl. Hickman promptly bounced a single past first base, scoring Gray and sending Litts to third. Michaels, who went into Saturday's game with a batting average of .084, slashed a single between short and third for his second hit of the game and Litts crossed the plate with the dead-locking run.

Paul Hoffman had a one ball, no strike count when Al Smith was sent up to bat, but the latter struck out to end the inning. Hickman stayed in the game at first base and Dale Metzgar took over at shortstop.

Sommers retired the Shippers without strain in the top of the seventh and it appeared as if Miller was going to do the same to the Cavaliers as Helmut Gartner and Gene Plaza went down on strikes. But, Gray, who hadn't punched the ball out of the infield all day, worked the count to one ball and one strike before lining the game-winning run into right center field.

East Stroudsburg was the first to threaten when Plaza opened the initial frame with a double to deep left field and went to third on a passed ball. Gray grounded out to the pitcher and Plaza was out a moment later on an attempted steal of home.

Heginns threatened in the third when Ed Snyder banged out his team's first hit past short and went to second on a wild pitch. But he was forced to remain at the midway sack as Sommers retired the side on two infield rollers and a pop fly. Hoffman and Pensyl combined on a fine play for the final out.

In the fourth Romberger singled to short after two were out and Miller fanned for the third out.

Pensyl struck out to open the fifth, but Michaels singled to center. Hoffman fanned, but Gartner drew a walk to put runners on first and second. Plaza flied out to right to end the frame.

Both teams supplied plenty of fireworks in the sixth, but it was all Gray in the seventh and final frame as the Cavaliers came back to win their first District 11 title in history.

Sommers and Miller pitched brilliantly throughout the game. Sommers fanned nine and walked only one batter, while Miller, a slow working southpaw, struck out 11 batters and walked three. The win was the 10th in 12 decisions for Sommers, while Miller finished with a mark of nine victories and three defeats.

Each team was credited with five hits and Earl Rickart, Heginns Township, committed the only error of the contest.

WISMER WINS NAZARETH EVENT

NAZARETH — Ken Wismer, Easton's gift to the racing world, won the feature event here at Nazareth Speedway yesterday as a crowd of 3,000 watched from the stands.

Bill Bachman, Bangor came home second and Reading's Russ Delp was third.

"Shorty" Kershner, Reading, won the first and third heats and then was forced from the main event by injuries believed to be confined to the head, neck and shoulder area.

Kershner collided with a car driven by Carl Van Horn, Belvidere, N. J., on the back stretch during the second lap and rolled over four times into the infield.

Kershner was taken to Easton Hospital, where X-rays were taken. He was held overnight.

Jim Patterson, Avondale, N. J., won the second heat and colorful Joey Cryan, Oxford, N. J., paced the field to the finish line in the consolation event.

Excitement Highlights Playoff Battle

Cavaliers Serve As Home Team

Heginns — Oddities, highlights and strange occurrences were more numerous than base hits on Saturday here at Heginns Park as East Stroudsburg High School won the District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association championship with a thrilling 3-2 nod over Heginns Township.

Both Coach Jack Kist, East Stroudsburg, and Ed Ziegler, Heginns, appeared satisfied to play for one run from the very beginning of Saturday's game, displaying complete faith in their pitchers and respective teams.

East Stroudsburg was supported by good luck as well as good baseball throughout the playoffs. On Saturday the Cavaliers won the toss of a coin that made them the home team. Earlier they won the right to battle Allentown at Gordon Giffels Field and a first round bye in the playoffs.

The playing field at Heginns is one of the best in the state. Although the outfield features a slight down grade, the infield is almost perfect. The foul line measured 311 feet in left field.

Fielding gem of the ball game was the catch of a line drive spanked by Gene Plaza by first baseman Fritz Reed. The blow appeared labeled for extra bases down the right field line.

A few drops of rain fell in the fourth and sixth innings, but nothing near strong enough to delay the game. A hard rain storm was experienced by the many fans driving through Lehigh around 1 p. m. on Saturday. It also rained in the Stroudsburgs on Saturday morning.

District 11 lost $70 on the Hazleton-Ringtown playoff in the Northern Division last week.

Bill Pensyl made several nice plays at first base for the Cavaliers. Failure to come up with one or two of the low throws would have put the East Stroudsburg club in the hole early.

Steve Majean, umpire at third base during the championship tussle, didn't arrive on the scene until two minutes before game time. He traveled 81 miles in one day.

The big blow was struck in the final inning of the championship struggle with Heginns Township.

East Stroudsburg 3, Hegins 2.
(1) Michaels, when winning run scored. (X) struck out for Hoffman in 6th. Runs batted in—Gray, Artz, Michaels, Michaels, Romberger, Romberger. Two base hits—Plaza. Left on base—Hegins 3; East Stroudsburg, 6. Struck out by Sommers, 9; Miller 11. Bases on balls—Sommers, 1; Miller, 2. Passed ball—Artz, Bill Sommers. Hit by pitcher—Gray, by Miller, Sacrifices—Artz, Schurman. Umpires—Becker, Wagner, Majeran. Time of game—2 hours.

Michael, another of East Stroudsburg's heroes on Saturday, notched his second hit of the contest right after Hickman to score the deadlocking counter. The rest of the story was all Gray. The quiet, modest kid bashed the homer and took all the praise in stride. The last I saw Dick on Saturday he was disappearing toward the player-bus, carrying his home run bat in his hands. The finish to Saturday's game was the biggest thrill ever presented this scribe since first taking over this job nine years ago and it's one I'll never forget.

HE'S IN—Dick Gray, East Stroudsburg High second baseman, is somewhere under this pile of happy baseball players after he slid across home plate with the winning run against Hegins Township on Saturday. Gray won the contest, 3-2, with a last inning home run. The players didn't let Gray off the ground for several minutes as they heaped praise on the junior classman. (Staff Photo by Riley)

WISMER WINS NAZARETH EVENT

NAZARETH — Ken Wismer, Easton's gift to the racing world, won the feature event here at Nazareth Speedway yesterday as a crowd of 3,000 watched from the stands.

Bill Bachman, Bangor came home second and Reading's Russ Delp was third.

"Shorty" Kershner, Reading, won the first and third heats and then was forced from the main event with injuries believed to be confined to the head, neck and shoulder area.

Kershner collided with a car driven by Carl Van Horn, Belvidere, N. J., on the back stretch during the second lap and rolled over four times into the infield.

Kershner was taken to Easton Hospital, where X-rays were taken. He was held overnight.

Jim Patterson, Avondale, N. J., won the second heat and colorful Joey Cryan, Oxford, N. J., paced the field to the finish line in the consolation event.

Excitement Highlights Playoff Battle

Cavaliers Serve As Home Team

Hegins — Oddities, highlights and strange occurrences were more numerous than base hits on Saturday here at Hegins Park as East Stroudsburg High School won the District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association championship with a thrilling 3-2 nod over Hegins Township.

Both Coach Jack Kist, East Stroudsburg, and Ed Ziegler, Hegins, appeared satisfied to play for one run from the very beginning of Saturday's game, displaying complete faith in their pitchers and respective teams.

East Stroudsburg was supported by good luck as well as good baseball throughout the playoffs. On Saturday the Cavaliers won the toss of a coin that made them the home team. Earlier they won the right to battle Allentown at Gordon Giffels Field and a first round bye in the playoffs.

The playing field at Hegins is one of the best in the state. Although the outfield features a slight down grade, the infield is almost perfect. The foul line measured 311 feet in left field.

Fielding gem of the ball game was the catch of a line drive spanked by Gene Plaza by first baseman Fritz Reed. The blow appeared labeled for extra bases down the right field line.

A few drops of rain fell in the fourth and sixth innings, but nothing near strong enough to delay the game. A hard rain storm was experienced by the many fans driving through Lehigh on Saturday, but it rained in the Stroudsburgs on Saturday morning.

District 11 lost $70 on the Hazleton-Ringtown playoff in the Northern Division last week.

Bill Pensyl made several nice plays at first base for the Cavaliers. Failure to come up with one or two of the low throws would have put the East Stroudsburg club in the hole early.

Steve Majeran, umpire at third base during the championship tussle, didn't arrive on the scene until two minutes before game time. He traveled 81 miles in one day.

Brookside ran up the winning margin on its home course as Joe Wolf and Charley "Chuck" Neha blanked the visiting pair of Lockwitch and Dennis Harris, 9-0, after Glen Brook's Storm and Mitchell "Jiggs" Metzgar nipped Ed Workman and Henry Hall, 5-4.

Glen Brook also took part in a Lehigh Valley Golf Association match on Saturday, bowing to Brookside, 22-14.

At Glen Brook the host team of Erickson and Fish won over Stan Ward and Harold Bilheimer,

STILL EXCITED—Dick Gray, who's homer won the District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic championship for East Stroudsburg High Saturday, still seems a little bewildered with all the excitement after freeing himself from extremely happy team mates. The big blow was struck in the final inning of the championship struggle with Hegins Township. (Staff Photo by Riley) and one-half hours. Steve was the alternate umpire in the District Two National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament which ended in Allentown on Saturday night.

A balk called on Bill Sommers in the third inning was the first most fans ever saw called against East Stroudsburg's brilliant mound ace.

Majeran warned Carl Romberger about running out of the base line in the fourth inning. At the end of the frame the same umpire discussed the situation with Paul Hoffman, Eastburg shortstop. Steve told Paul what to do if a similar situation should ever arise again.

Majeran said during the course of the game that he has umpired in the District 11 playoffs for the last seven years and that Hegins Township has played in six of the post-season tournaments.

Hegins Township reportedly played most of its home games on a field located next to the high school, making the field on which Saturday's game was played almost neutral.

Del Davis, assistant football and basketball coach at East Stroudsburg High, was one of the ticket takers at Saturday's encounter.

Saylorsburg Takes Over Lead

SAYLORSBURG—Saylorsburg moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League here yesterday with a 10-4 decision over Tannersville. The contest was played on the winning club's home field.

The Lakers did the bulk of their damage in the third frame when they scored six runs off Bill Peetchatka and then withstood a middle-inning rush by Tannersville.

Saylorsburg's victory was its sixth in seven league outings, while Tannersville now sports a record of four victories and three defeats.

U. S. Concerned About Tito-Red Conferences

By Robert S. Allen
WASHINGTON, June 5—U. S. authorities are much more concerned about what is transpiring in Yugoslavia than they are admitting publicly.
That is the real significance behind Secretary of State Dulles' announcement that the U. S., Britain and France will confer with Yugoslav leaders on increasing military aid.
Inside fact is that Marshal Tito and his lieutenants have been evincing disquieting neutralist leanings for some time.

That's why the Kremlin czars made their extraordinary "peace" pilgrimage to Belgrade. They had been eyeing the Yugoslavs' back-stage trend towards neutralism and decided the time was ripe to kiss and make up with them.

Press reports about the Khrushchev-Bulgarian visit were inaccurate in claiming the Reds attempted to wheedle or pressure Tito into their camp. State Department accounts do not confirm these stories. According to the State Department's authoritative information, the Russians carefully avoided making demands of any kind. Instead, they stressed their desire for amity and harmony and thus shrewdly played on Tito's inclinations toward steering a "middle course" between the East and West.

That sort of neutralism would suit the Kremlin fine. It would fit in squarely with Soviet tactics and policies.

State Department and Pentagon officials are fully cognizant of this serious situation and are following it closely. That is why Ambassador James Riddleberger is returning from Belgrade for consultations next week.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee heard a special report on this problem from Deputy Assistant Secretary of State C. Burke Elbrick.

Senate Republican Leader William Knowland, Calif., questioned Elbrick on "whether any thought has been given to reconsidering the aid program to Yugoslavia in view of the latest developments there."

"The aid program," replied Elbrick, "is based on the assumption that there will be a continuation of the spirit of independence by Yugoslavia and of continued cooperation with the U. S. If there is any change in this situation, if these assumptions should prove incorrect, we will of course promptly re-examine the aid program."

"Aren't you already concerned about certain of Tito's moves and ideas?" continued Knowland.

Elbrick conceded there is concern in the State Department.
"We have been somewhat concerned," he admitted, "about what certain authorities consider to be a growing neutralist viewpoint in Yugoslavia. There seems to be quite a bit of neutralist sentiment developing there."

"Wasn't Tito in the Far East recently?" said Knowland. "And while he was out there, didn't he encourage the countries he visited, particularly Burma, to keep aloof from any collective defense system in that part of the world?"

"That's neutralism in my book," Elbrick replied.

"We had reports on this trip," remarked Elbrick, "without going any further as to what these reports were."

"Well, what about those reports?" demanded Knowland. "Isn't it a fact that Tito offered to supply Yugoslav equipment to Burma as an inducement to keep out of a collective defense arrangement with the free world?"

"Yes, he did make an offer," agreed Elbrick, "but I'm not sure as to its exact purpose."
Knowland inquired how much equipment Yugoslavia might have for that.

"They have some light equipment which they make themselves," replied Elbrick. "It is our information that Yugoslavia was not offering U. S. equipment. We understand that Burma proposed to exchange food for equipment which Yugoslavia is making itself. That is our understanding of this proposal."

Elbrick also told the Senate Committee that the U. S. is giving

Ethel West Attends Three Day Community Chest Confab

CAMPAIGN chairman and other volunteers of the nation's United Community Campaigns met in Dayton, O., for a three-day, June 1-3, study of their local Community Chests, United Funds and Red Feather campaigns which will raise funds next fall for family service, child care, USO, recreation, youth and health services.

Miss Ethel West, executive secretary of Monroe County Community Chest attended the sessions.

Sessions for the National Campaign Leaders Conference were held for the fifth consecutive year at the Sugar Camp convention facilities of The National Cash Register Company, through the courtesy of Stanley C. Allyn, president of The National Cash Register Company and past president of Community Chests and Councils of America. More than 400 volunteer campaign leaders from communities throughout the United States and Canada attended the conference sponsored by Community Chests and Councils of America.

J. P. Spang, Jr., president of The Gillette Company, Boston, Mass., and 1955 chairman of the United Community Campaigns of America, greeted the conference members. Program chairman of the meeting was Eskil I. Bjork, president, Peoples Gas, Light and Coke Company, Chicago, Illinois.

A feature of the conference of campaign leaders was the presentation of the Red Feather Award for outstanding service on behalf of united fund raising and community welfare planning to Robert Cutler, chairman of the board, The Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, Mass., and president of Community Chests and Councils of America from 1939 to 1942. Recipients of the Award in previous years have been: Mrs. Victor Shaw, Fairmont, West Va., 1954; Edward L. Ryerson, Chicago, Ill., 1953; Stanley C. Allyn, Dayton, O., 1952; Alex F. Scientific Christianity As Bulwark PRACTICAL application of scientific Christianity is building a mighty bulwark for individual, national, and universal liberty. The Christian Science Board of Directors declared today.

Addressing a gathering of some 7,500 Christian Scientists at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., the Directors declared that the "assurance of freedom from sickness as well as from sin, from want and woe as well as from forebodings of despair" is available to all through spiritual understanding of God.

"The uncertainties which confuse and perplex the nations become less alarming and portentous in proportion as the certainty of God's guidance is better understood," the Directors stated.

Church members from all over the world—Australia, Africa, Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain, Sweden, Japan and other distant points, as well as Canada and the United States—came to Boston for the meeting which has been held annually for more than a half century. Smaller meetings on specialized subjects convene on days following the main session.

Commenting on the world's fight for freedom, the Directors called for individual, spiritual alertness in meeting the "threats and subtleties and wicked manipulations which seem to be so potent in the struggle."

"In every new upsurge of evil we are learning to seek and to expect fresh proofs of the presence and redemptive power of the Christ," they said.

Forecasting victory for the lovers of freedom, they declared that the way is being paved for "the reconciliation of all nations and for the reign of harmony on earth."

New President of The Mother Church for the coming year, it was announced, is Mrs. Gertrude W. Eisenman of Boston.

John B. Bergstresser offered the invocation and Rev. Adan Bohner gave the benediction. There are 26 pupils in the promoted class.

Tree-Planting Reports Given At Meeting

A REGULAR meeting of the Monroe County Soil Conservation District Board was held recently at the office, 615 Sarah St. All directors were in attendance.

Also at the meeting were representatives of four cooperating agencies and a Harrisburg agent.

In a report to the group, Clyde Pyle, district forester, reported that 32,000 trees have been planted on the cooperating farms in the MCSCD. John Doebeling, district game protector, reported that 8,000 shrubs have been planted on State game lands and 100 acres of permanent hay or pasture have been put in.

Willmer B. Frisbie, vocational agricultural adviser for this area, reported that two classes each in Stroudsburg, Polk and Chestnut Hill Township schools had been given an illustrated lecture on conservation by A. Norman Dietrick, soil conservationist and had made field trips with Dietrick to observe work done at first hand.

Oscar Kimmell, of the State Soil Conservation Commission, Harrisburg, urged the directors to establish meetings—such as those between Dietrick and the vocational agriculture students—which would be attended by farmers in the area, by invitation. Kimmell outlined the value of making tie-ins with equipment dealers, to show the uses to which equipment sold by them can be put in conservation measures.

Dietrick, in his regular report, said that 5,000 feet of diversion terracing has been constructed so

Sermons on conservation were preached at the Broadheads-ville Union charge (with seven churches) and mention of the special observation was made in Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, Dietrick said.

Directors attending were Amzi Altomose, chairman; Raymond Al-leger, vice chairman; William Baumgartner, Elmer Kreger and J. H. Kunkle.
